Here is the truth about supplements:

Supplements are optional; you do not NEED them to succeed

That being said, I recommend a few reasons

1. These supplements will enhance the quality of your life
2. These supplements will speed up your results
3. These supplements will make your journey much more enjoyable
4. These supplement companies are the best in the business

Remember that no supplement alone will help you realize your dream body. Before the supplement craze, there were body builders and trainers that stood ripped, healthy and lean.

But science has allowed us to achieve that ripped, healthy look faster and easier. It has allowed us to eliminate the bad and only bring the good.

Most supplement companies have one thing in mind: PROFIT

They are a business, and their goal is to sell you products so that they can make money.

So you can still take supplements I don't recommend but I stand behind the ones I recommend because I know they have been tested, they work and that you will certainly not be wasting your money on Ntiro Blast xd.

So the first supplement I would like to recommend that really is a necessity in your daily routine is a Greens drink.

Something to alkalize your body, provide you with amazing nutrients and keep your body running at top speed.

The Point Of The Man Supplement Bible

The point of this manual is to give you every advantage to boost your anabolic hormones. The problem with most supplement manuals is that they are designed for both men and women.

Guys need different supplements than women. period. Our physiology is just different.

While there are a number of different supplements I have recommended in the past, I am going to narrow down the selection a bit for this program.

Over the course of the last couple of years I have narrowed down a number of my favorite vitamin and mineral formulas as well as the most potent testosterone boosting supplements.

Guys want simple solutions to the problem of what supplements to take.

If you don't know this already, testosterone to cortisol balance is one of the keys to maintaining a large amount of muscle mass and keeping body fat levels low. The two hormones work on an axis. Often time what increases one will lower the other.

So without further or do, lets get right into it!

Since there are many 100% isolates out there, you might be wondering what makes WHEY+ different, and worth trying?

BEST PRE-WORKOUT FAT BURNER + MUSCLE SUPPORT

FORGE is a fat burner made specifically for use with fasted training. It helps you lose fat--and “stubborn” fat in particular--faster, preserve muscle, and maintain training intensity and mental sharpness.

If you’ve ever looked for advice on how to lose fat faster--and especially “stubborn” hip, belly, and thigh fat--you’ve probably read about exercising on an empty stomach.

According to many experts, training on an empty stomach is a simple but powerful way to increase the amount of fat your body burns while you work out.

Well, FORGE was created with three very specific goals in mind:

1. To maximize the amount of fat you lose while training on an empty stomach
2. To minimize the amount of muscle you lose while training in this state
3. To help you maintain intensity and focus in your workouts, which can wane when “training on empty”

The research is crystal clear: when combined with a proper diet and fasted exercise routine, FORGE will help you lose fat faster, preserve muscle, and enjoy your workouts.
